RIO DE LA PLATA (RIVER PLATE, South America)

The River Plate is the widest estuary in the world. It forms part of the border between Argentina and Uruguay and is the result of the meeting of two rivers, the Uruguay River and The Parana, as they flow into the Atlantic Ocean.

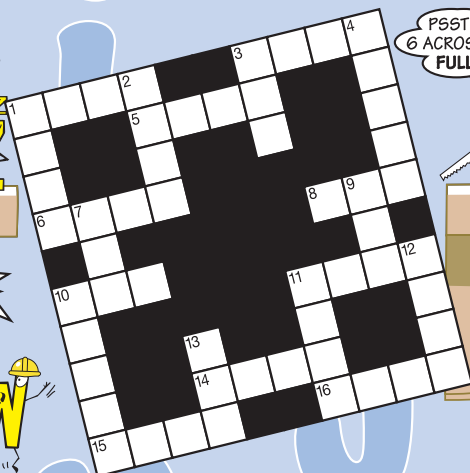

Where the rivers join, it is about 48km (30 miles) wide, becoming wider as it runs for 290km (180 miles) to reach its widest point of 220km (137 miles).
